Governor's Proclamation

TELEHEALTH AWARENESS WEEK

State of Wyoming
By the Governor

WHEREAS, ongoing advancements in healthcare, coupled with growing workforce shortages, and increasing demand for services, have placed unprecedented pressure on our health care system. The use of healthcare technology and telehealth has become an important and necessary means of relieving some of this pressure by increasing patient access to primary and specialty care, expanding opportunities to provide care in remote communities, improving patient-care continuity; and

WHEREAS, the growing popularity of telehealth in Wyoming, among both patients and providers, has continued to put a much-needed spotlight on the benefits telehealth as it relates to patient care and access, promoted cost savings, improved patient satisfaction, and an overall improved quality of care; and

WHEREAS, telehealth and other remote access technologies are especially critical in rural and other remote areas that lack sufficient health care services, including specialty care; and

WHEREAS, now is the time to increase awareness and emphasize the importance of these services for the thousands of people in Wyoming who need a safe, effective, and convenient option to access their care.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, MARK GORDON, Governor of the State of Wyoming, do hereby proclaim the week of September 22nd through 26th, 2025 to be

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Executive Seal of the Governor of Wyoming to be affixed this 17th day of September, 2025.
